

INDIAN PRESS SERVICE

16-A, Friends Colony (West), New Delhi – 110 065; TELEPHONE: 26831995, 51628626;

TELEFAX : 91-011-51627247; EMAIL : ipsbib@airtelbroadband.in

PRESS CLIPPINGS ON "DAN DAVID PRIZE"

TUESDAY, 13TH MARCH, 2007

PAGES : 1

ATTN. : LILLEBIL

CLIPPINGS : 2

Zubin Mehta wins Dan David prize

TEL AVIV, March 9 – India-born music conductor, Zubin Mehta, has won the prestigious Dan David prize for 2007 for outstanding contribution in his field.

Mehta is the second Indian to receive the award after Prof C N R Rao won it in 2005 for his contribution to the field of material sciences.

The one million dollar award is given annually in three different fields - Archaeology, Performing Arts and Material Science - in the three dimension time framework of past, present and future. The prize is awarded jointly by Tel Aviv University and the Dan David Foundation.

Mehta won the prize along with musician Pascal Dusapin, in the present time dimension. Historian Jacques Le Goff won the award for the past time dimension and scientists James E Hansen, Sarah R Kurtz and Jerry M Olson were awarded for the future time dimension.

The ceremony, which was held in Paris for the first time, was attended by French Culture and Communications Minister Renaud Donnedieu de Vabres and Tel Aviv University President Prof Itamar Rabinovitz. – PTI

Zubin wins Dan David award

Tel Aviv: India-born music conductor, Zubin Mehta, has won the prestigious Dan David Prize for 2007 for outstanding contribution in his field. Mehta is the second Indian to receive the award after Prof CNR Rao won it in 2005 for his contribution to the field of material sciences. The one million dollar award is given annually in three different fields, Archaeology, Performing Arts and Material Science, in the three dimension time framework of past, present and future.

CENTRAL CHRONICAL,
BHOPAL 10.03.2007

THE ASSAM TRIBUNE,
GUWAHATI 10.03.2007

*****